Dear Reader,

hereby we would like to inform you about an extraordinary exhibition coming up in Paris this coming January at

GALLERY AUBONHEURDUJOUR Paris, Info: <http://www.aubonheurdujour.net>

For the first time ever American photographer John Palatinus presents his works in Europe. After being arrested and convicted fifty years ago, when post-office-censors and police confiscated all his photos and studio equipment in 1959, much of his "lost work" emerged through the internet and was put together now telling that dramatic story. John Palatinus, 81, is a pioneer of the legendary "golden era of male physique photography" and might be one of the last witnesses of that fight for freedom of artistic expression more than ten years before STONEWALL. He and his contemporary photographers set measurements to male erotic photography and – like Palatinus – often payed a rather high price for it.

In cooperation with

SCHWULES MUSEUM Berlin, that this years celebrates its own 25th anniversary, Info: <http://www.schwulesmuseum.de> after Paris the exhibition is planned to travel to London, Antwerp, Cologne, Warsaw and Berlin.
